Processing.

Return film to Ilford Limited.
Put film in original carton,
Make sure that an Ilford Processing Voucher is attached to the carton

Processing costs 18/-
Processing Vouchers for this amount are available from photographic shops.

Enclose film and carton in bag.
Before posting make sure you have secured the bag and stamped it. Cartridge plus bag weigh 1¼ oz (approx 35 g)

Loading and unloading

Drop the cartridge in and close the camera. Advance the film until the mechanism locks. After taking each picture, again advance the film until the mechanism locks. Through the window in the back of the camera you can see the number of your next exposure. (When winding, ignore the window; operate the film advance until it locks.) After you have taken 12 pictures, advance the film until the window appears black. Open the camera and remove the cartridge.

Daylight photographs

Most cameras can be adjusted to suit the weather and the type of subject; see your camera instructions if necessary. If your camera is the non-adjustable type, take pictures only in bright sun. If you have an automatic camera, follow the camera instructions.

If your camera has a built-in fold-away flashgun, keep the flashgun folded while you are taking daylight pictures.

Flash photographs

Use blue flashbulbs or flashcubes. Always make sure that the flash-to-subject distance is within the range given in the camera or flashgun/flashcube instructions.

Care of the film

Keep both unexposed and exposed film in a cool dry place. Do not leave the camera in a position where heat may build up (for instance, the back shelf of a car). As soon as you have taken the last picture, unload the camera and post the cartridge for processing. (Do not open the cartridge at any time.)
